DRIVE IS ON ROUSH, ONLY

Payment
GERMANY signs an agreement with France, to deliver $1,500,000,000 worth of building material within three years.
That is the way Germany ultimately will pay her indemnity. Allies have the gold craze and want Germany to pay in gold. But there isn't enough gold in the world to permit that.
French makers of building materials will suffer from the flood of German goods. War is always a loss, even to the victor.

Gosh!
THE megaphone man on rubber-neck wagons at Uniontown, Pa. should point out Thomas Marrucci, street sweeper. Eight years ago, Tom came from Italy, penniless. His wages have been more than $250 a day.

Now he buys a home, paying $10,000 for it. "This makes 12 properties I own," said Tom, between sweeps of his brush.
This is another wonder worked by the little giant, Thrift. To get dollars and cents, you need dollars sense.

Mill
AT Pawtucket, Rhode Island the old Slater mill is being fitted up as a textile museum. It was built in 1790 as a clothing factory, and still is in excellent condition.
In those old days before iron nails were cheap, when houses were put together with wooden pegs, they built better than we do now. At least you often hear old-timers say so. Maybe they did, on the average. But, barring earthquakes, the Woolworth Building will be standing hundreds of years hence.

Easy
SEEBOHM ROUNDTREE (which is the oddest name you have heard for many a moon) is one of England's six largest employers of labor.
He speaks in Boston, recommending a system of insurance against unemployment. That, however, would probably be provided by taking it out on the workers' pay envelopes during boom times.
The best unemployment insurance is a savings account. Too bad that so many do not save with a vengeance, unless they have to. You save easily when you have a debt to pay off. Why not consider yourself in debt to your old age, and begin paying off that debt, putting pay in the bank to gain interest? Four old age will thank you.

"Mrs. Lady"
A WOMAN who said, "Call me plain Mrs. Lady," drove up to a schoolhouse in New York City and distributed an auto load of apples to 200 children. This unusual performance halted traffic for 10 minutes, the traffic cops gleefully assisting.

Farmers, instead of letting food rot because selling price doesn't pay for the trouble of marketing, would get much happiness if they hauled food into poor districts of cities and distributed it to the jobless. The satisfaction of being a "Mrs. Lady" beats wheat at $3.50 a bushel.

Joke
A GREAT joker was Hugh Brennan, 32 years old, of Lynn, Mass. His favorite prank on fellow-motormen, when he was off duty, was to run into the street and fall down in front of a street car. That upset the nerves of the electric driver and Hugh got many a laugh.
The other morning, he tried his luck before a car driven by motor man Pat Connelley. The brakes didn't work. Brennan has a fractured skull. Every practical joker eventually causes a serious accident. Unfortunately, it is not always to himself.

SAYS LIMITATION ONLY POSSIBLE

Declares Desirability of Complete Abolition Questionable.

"FALSE HOPES ARE AROUSED"

President Acts to Stem What He Terms Wrong Propaganda

(By RAYMOND CLAPPER)
WASHINGTON—(United Press)—Universal disarmament is impossible and even its desirability now is questionable, President Harding said today.

The president's view, which makes it clear the American delegation at the arms parity will seek only a limitation of armament, was stated in emphatic terms in a letter made public by the White House to stem a growing propaganda—mostly well intended—for complete abolition of armament.

The letter, made public simultaneously with the assembling of the American delegation of the disarmament conference here today, was addressed to Miss Ella L. Freed, Brooklyn, N. Y., who had written the president, urging him to work for complete disarmament.

Hundreds of letters have come to the White House, urging Harding to insist that armies and navies of the world over be wiped out by the conference. This propaganda, Harding believes, is arousing false hopes which cannot possibly be realized, and which, if insisted upon, might wreck the conference.

"By reasonable limitation," the president wrote, "I mean something practicable that there is a chance to accept, rather than an ideal that there is no chance to realize. It is necessary to deal with actualities, to do the best possible universal disarmament would be beyond hope of realization, even its desirability at this time might well be questioned. Thousands of years of history recording the wars and controversies of mankind, suggest that human nature would require revolutionary reorganization to make universal disarmament possible. A consideration of the present state of the world must, I think, enforce the conclusion that this is not a hopeful time to undertake that kind of revolution."

SINCERE BEGINNING
"On the other hand, a world with the horrors of recent experiences seared into its mind, and staggering under the load of debt and armaments, has generously justified our hope for a favorable attitude toward the practical effort, the sincere beginning, that we are attempting. The fine spirit in which leading nations have received the invitation to meet and consider these things, is altogether encouraging. To undertake the impossible and fail, might leave our last state worse than the first. The great nations warrant the confidence that we will not fail, but rather that substantial results will be accomplished, calculated to lessen the armament burdens and to reduce the danger of conflict. I feel that in such an effort, we are entitled to the support of all people who would be glad—as I can assure you I would—to see still more accomplished if possible."

U. S. DELEGATES MEET
WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—Formulation of policies to be pursued by the American delegation at the conference on limitation of armament and Far Eastern and Pacific questions was begun today when the four delegates selected by President Harding to represent the United States, held their first meeting at the state department.

Responding to a call issued yesterday by Secretary of State Hughes, designated by the president as the head of the American delegation, the delegates arrived at the department at ten o'clock. Senator Underwood was the first to arrive and Elihu Root the last of the quartet.

CORN LIQUOR GETTING BACK TO "NORMALCY"

The price of corn liquor is getting back to normalcy, according to George Coons, 40, oilman, who was fined $15 for intoxication before Judge Emmett Jackson in criminal court Wednesday.
Coons told the court he purchased a quart for $6 and testified that it had an awful wallop. The whiskey was purchased in Findlay, he stated.

NO MAN BRAVER

Miss Louise Higgins is a steeple-jack or should we say "Steeplejill"? She has issued a challenge for any man to do a climbing stunt which she cannot do. She has been negotiating Broadway with her stunts on Gotham skyscrapers.

NEWBERRY WON'T RESIGN SEAT

Will Not Defend Himself, Either, the Senator Says.

(By LAWRENCE MARTIN)
WASHINGTON—(By United Press)—Senator Newberry, of Michigan, will neither resign, nor arise to defend himself before the committee that investigated him, his election cost too much money, he said today.

This was Newberry's answer to recent suggestions that he do one or the other.
"I'll sit tight and wait with what patience I can summon for the senate to act on the report of the committee that investigated me," Newberry said.
His attitude, Newberry said, "was based on the best advice he could get."
As to reports that he will resign, he said, "I have often wished myself out of this, but to resign now is impossible."
Friends of the senator says he realized Republican leaders may put in an embarrassing position by Democratic efforts to oust him, but that he considers resignation while he is under fire would be taken as an admission of guilt.

EFFECT FEARED
The effect of the "Newberry case" in the next congressional elections is plainly feared by Republican leaders. The Republican report on the case admits that more than $175,000 was spent for his senatorial campaign by Henry Ford and that this fact offers much campaign material, it is admitted, if Newberry is seated. Senator Lodge, Republican leader, however, has been insisting that Newberry, in a speech to the senate, deny for himself that he personally spent large sums or knew of the spending of any undue amount in the 1918 campaign.

SHAKES HIMSELF CLEAR OF THE NAME TROTZKY

PASSAIC, N. J.—The name Trotsky is a handicap no American should be compelled to labor under, County Judge Watson said today. He permitted Trotsky to change his name to Benjamin Travers.

"I have been fighting against that name of Trotsky ever since that fool in Europe started things," the applicant, a butcher, told Judge Watson.

"Customers come to my place of business, look at my window and then pass on because of the name. I have been referred to as a relative of that man and I'm sick and tired of it and want it changed."

POLICE TO WAR OWNERS OF CARS PARKED WRONG

Motorists who have been parking their cars the wrong way should beware of the police, is the warning issued Wednesday by Chief O. J. Roush.

Too many of them, according to the chief, are in the habit of parking their cars in the wrong direction in the residence section. Orders will be issued to pick 'em up for this offense.

OTHER POLICEMEN NOT INCLUDED

Special Probers For Mayor Hold Their First Meeting.

INVESTIGATE IN SECRET

Cost of Work to City Expected To Be Heavy.

Investigation to be carried on by Mayor Burkhardt's special probers will extend only to Chief O. J. Roush. This became definitely known Wednesday when members of the commission received their notices from the chief executive.

The special investigators are commissioned only to inquire into the conduct of the chief's office and the conduct of Roush himself.

Another angle which has been eagerly awaited was the announcement of the commission that the hearings will be held in private. Nothing will be made public until the result of the investigation is handed to the mayor.

HEARINGS IN PRIVATE
The first meeting of the body was held with Mayor Burkhardt Wednesday. City Solicitor H. E. Garling was present. It was announced that meetings will be held from time to time, no regular schedule being fixed.

Civil Service Commissioner Fred Zeitz, on whose chair the probe is based, was also at the mayor's office Wednesday, but did not appear before the investigators.
It had been expected, in view of the long list of charges made by the mayor against the police department a few months ago and the accusations of a general nature accredited to Zeitz, that Burkhardt would ask his special board to look into the affairs of the entire department. His notice to his committee, composed of L. E. Ludwig, T. R. Hamilton and F. C. Povenmire, shows however, that a drive will be made on Roush alone.
Whether the mayor will seek to make a separate investigation of the police department could not be learned. If Roush is exonerated, the charges of laxity made by the mayor some time ago will still stand. If Roush is ousted, some believe that will satisfy the accusers of the department and a new chief will be put in charge with the duty of carrying out the ideas of those who appoint him.

LUDWIG REFUSES PAY
The statute under which the mayor is ordering the probe provides that city council may provide reasonable compensation for the special investigators. It is understood that there is no fixed sum.

Ludwig, who is named in position of chairman of the board by the mayor, announced Wednesday that he had stipulated in accepting the appointment that he was to receive no money for his services. This, he said, is understood by the mayor. The other members of the board refused to discuss the matter of pay when asked of their attitude by a representative of The News.

It is impossible to ascertain what the probable cost of the investigation will be, although it is expected to be more or less expensive in view of the circumstances under which the commission will operate. The total expense will be paid by the city.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT
Following is a copy of Burkhardt's notice to his probers:
Messrs. L. E. Ludwig, T. R. Hamilton, F. C. Povenmire, Gentlemen:

By authority conferred upon me by Section 3782 G. C. of Ohio, I hereby appoint you a board of examiners to examine the affairs of the Chief of Police of the City of Lima, to ascertain facts relative to the conduct of such officer and as to the character and conduct of Mr. O. J. Roush, Chief of Police of the City of Lima. You will kindly report your findings of facts to this office at an early consistent date.

Yours truly,
(Signed) F. A. BURKHARDT, Mayor

M'ARDLE GIRL IS SET FREE

Accquitted of Complicity in Murder of Kaber.

JURY OUT NINETEEN HOURS

Eight Ballots Taken Before Verdict Is Reached

CLEVELAND.—(By Associated Press).—Marian McArdle, 20-year-old daughter of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, was found not guilty of complicity in the murder plot of Daniel Kaber, her step-father, by a jury today.

Miss McArdle was permitted to leave the court room a free girl immediately after the jury reported. The jury of nine men and three women had the case under deliberation since late yesterday afternoon.

The jury reported an agreement shortly before noon after being out 19 hours. When it failed to agree on a verdict late last night the jurors were locked up in a hotel and resumed deliberation of the case at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Eight ballots were taken, the three women members of the jury standing solidly for acquittal throughout.

4 POSSIBLE VERDICTS
When the deadlock was reported last night Louis E. Hart of Chicago, and Francis W. Poulson, Miss McArdle's attorneys, went to her cell to reassure her of the outcome and to comfort her. The jail matron reported the 20-year-old girl to be suffering mentally under the strain of waiting for the verdict.

Judge Powell instructed the jurors to bring in one of four verdicts—first degree murder without mercy, first degree murder with mercy, second degree murder or acquittal.

THIRD TO BE TRIED
Altho the girl is charged with first degree murder, the prosecuting attorneys in their closing arguments, indicated they would be satisfied with a verdict of guilty with recommendation for mercy.

Miss McArdle is the third of five persons indicted for Kaber's murder to face trial. Others indicted were Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, her mother; Mrs. Mary Brickel, 68, her grandmother; Salvatore Cala and Mrs. Emma Colavito.

Mrs. Kaber and Cala were found guilty of first degree murder with recommendation for mercy and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Colavito, who it is alleged, hired Cala and Vittorio Pisselli to stab Kaber to death, and Mrs. Brickel, upon whom Miss McArdle and Cala place the responsibility for the murder plot, are awaiting trial. Miss McArdle was arrested in New York with her mother early last summer.

FREED ON MOTHER LOVE
Miss McArdle's plea of "mother love" offset in the minds of the jurors the evidence introduced by the state in its attempt to prove her a conspirator in the murder plot in which her invalid stepfather was stabbed to death, according to W. W. Britton, foreman of the jury.

"We felt that Marian committed no criminal act in guarding her mother's secrets and that she had only natural thing for a daughter to do—what any devoted daughter would do for her mother," Britton said after the verdict was read.

Miss McArdle stood pale and weary at the trial table as the verdict was read. She had spent a restless night in her cell and the strain of the trial was written sharply on her features.

When the words "not guilty" were read by the clerk of court her eyes quivered and tears rolled down her cheeks as she realized she was free.

She was quickly surrounded by a group of her school-girl friends and others who congratulated her with kisses and hand claps.

Overcome with emotion she sought out all the members of the jury and thanked them.

"I certainly am grateful," she said as she passed from one juror to another. When she reached the first of the women jurors, Mrs. Anna Livingston, she kissed her.

CITY PROSPEROUS THRU GREAT TEAM WORK

TRADE APLENTY AT LOS ANGELES

No Depression There Because of Optimism.

PLANTS WORKING DAY, NIGHT

Factories Unable to Fill Orders, Spillane Learns.

(BY RICHARD SPILLANE.)

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(Special).—Los Angeles is the wonder city of the west. It was affected to less degree, perhaps, than any other center of the United States by the depression. With only a few exceptions its industrial and general business concerns are doing more than in 1929.

It is a city of optimists. Nowhere do you find people more glowing in the praise of their home town, and nowhere do you find so much team work by men of affairs.

Some extravagant spirits predict Los Angeles is destined to be the second city of America. Today it has the largest population on the west coast, and is growing so fast as to startle a placid easterner. Investigation, however, is likely to make the visitor believe the growth not only is healthy, but warranted, for the city is unique in its variety of assets. It has no labor troubles. That may be ascribed in part to the McNamara dynamite outrage of years ago, that so incensed the public that unionism has been banned here ever since. Another reason is that as a general rule, workers own their own homes, and there is a garden patch to each home in which fruits, flowers and vegetables are grown.

In few large cities are living costs so low. Practically everything man eats is grown nearby and nowhere in America is the marketing system so well organized and foods so cheap. The great increase in the volume of business in the last year, can be explained only by the increase in population. One of the finest department stores reported its September sales 45 per cent greater than those of September, 1929.

Real estate men pointed to the fact that Los Angeles led the nation in the last twelve months in construction of industrial, residential and office buildings.

The largest flouring mill concern pointed to the fact that it was fifty per cent above last year's production, that it was operating day and night, and Sunday, and it has been compelled to increase the capacity of its plant. Mr. Dickson, editor of the Express, said the volume of advertising, local and foreign, was an index to general prosperity. A glance, he thought, would show that no city in America were news papers in better condition. He also called attention to the growth of Los Angeles export trade, which from $253,000 in 1913, has risen to $20,000,000 this year.

The largest manufacturer of mahogany, oak, and cabinet goods on the coast, and whose sales territory covers from the Mississippi, to the Hawaiian Islands, declared his business showed a forty per cent increase for the first six months of this year, and another forty per cent increase since then had compelled him to increase his force of workers, and he was about to increase it again.

About 12,000 persons are employed in textile mills, in and around Los Angeles. The statement from the mill owners is that business is good, very good. Sales are restricted, some of them say, by inability to produce as much as required. One big manufacturer says he has had to withdraw some salesmen from the road because it was impossible to fill orders.

Bankers say Los Angeles is in excellent shape financially. Bank clearings show 16 per cent increase over last year, with a constantly ascending scale. Los Angeles banks finance anything, as one banker puts it, from soup to nuts—the soup being canned, and the nuts—walnuts and the like—going in the shell. Unlike eastern financial institutions, those hereabouts are not seasonal—not lending on 90 days paper, but on the crop.

That's what they say. What's more, that's what they are telling to the people of America, thru their Chamber of Commerce, which is one of the most efficient in the United States, and the city is growing remarkably because of it.

STOLEN MONEY IS BURIED IN MANURE PILE AT ST. MARYS

ST. MARYS.—(Special).—The sum of $497 was dug out of a manure pile here Tuesday, after Bryan Hubble, 25, told police that he thought he saw a man bury the money in stable refuse at the rear of the Hubble homestead. The recovered represents all save $3 which was stolen from Richard Webb, a guest at the Hubble home. Young Hubble was arrested on suspicion after he had framed up a story about a robber entering the home early Monday morning. He told police that he struck at the intruder with a chair and shattered an electric light.

Later, on Tuesday he admitted the robbery. Webb refused to prosecute and Hubble was released, but the case will be taken up by the grand jury, it is stated.

ARE HOLIDAYS A GOOD THING?

Business Men Take Different Views on Subject.

SAY TOO MANY VACATIONS

Other Nations Have Their Days Off, Also.

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK.—(Special).—"Another holiday! There are too many of them. They interfere with one's work."

That remark was made yesterday, not by a money-grabbing employer, but by an ordinary employee when reminded that today (Wednesday) was a legal holiday, Columbus Day, in New York State.

Well, now, how about it? Are we in danger of introducing too many holidays into our calendar? Are a great many holidays a good thing for a nation? Or are they a bad thing? Are they beneficial to employees? Or have they a bad effect?

I've just had an associate compile figures showing the number of public holidays in different countries. And what, think you, is the thought produced by the showing? It is this:

Backward nations go in for more holidays than do progressive nations.

Turkey has twenty-six major holidays, to say nothing of minor local ones. Brazil has twenty-eight of one kind or another, and each state adds one or two or three extra for good measure. Egypt has twenty-three big holidays, and the natives revel in a great many more. China also observes twenty-three national holidays, and excuses are found in different parts for additional local celebrations. Mexico and Italy each has 19 holidays, the former also has many local holidays. Argentina has 21, and Rumania squeezes in no fewer than two dozen.

In contrast with these, England has only half a dozen national holidays, while Scotland really observes only three general holidays in addition to a local holiday fixed by each community to suit its own convenience. Including bank holidays, Britain's total reaches ten. But bank holidays are little observed by the ordinary people outside of London. Hard working Denmark gets along with ten holidays, as does Norway. Switzerland officially casts aside work only seven days in the year. Sweden has nine holidays and four half holidays. Belgium has nine official holidays. France indulges in fifteen, as also does Japan. Canada contrives to get along with nine days off, but Quebec adds a number of religious holidays. Germany's stock exchanges close only eight days every year, but there are quite a number of additional religious holidays celebrated in Catholic Germany, making a total of 19 altogether.

How about our own country? There are no national legal holidays to the United States, each state fixing by law what days shall be legal holidays.

The average, taking in all states, is ten every year, but of late years there has been a distinct tendency to increase the number.

Take New York State. Not so long ago it had only eight holidays, but first Lincoln's birthday was added (in 1909) and now Columbus Day, October 12, has been tagged on. And agitation is growing to add to more nation-wide holidays, namely, Armistice Day and Roosevelt Day. Judging from the present temper of the people, the chances are that these extra days will be recognized before very long.

The District of Columbia heads the list with eighteen—eclipsing Panama's 15 and Porto Rico's 13. Alabama takes 14 days off, and several southern states treat themselves to a round dozen, including Florida, Maryland and Louisiana. Wisconsin and Oklahoma knock off only seven days a year. Iowa, South Dakota and Maine get along with eight holidays. Quite a number of states take nine days off, a number ten, and quite a few, eleven.

The temptation to lengthen the list of public holidays has usually proved irresistible when a nation has attained a position of great power and wealth and extravagance. The ancients indulged in no end of holidays to celebrate notable triumphs over enemies, to honor great heroes or rulers and so forth.

A super abundance of holidays usually marked the beginning and spread of national decadence. Also, wherever the ecclesiastics gained domination, religious feasts and fasts were ordained in bewildering number.

Apparently, the nations that work hardest vote themselves the fewest holidays. Peoples who lose ambition find excuses for introducing an abundance of holidays.

Are we of this country entering on the wrong track in injecting more and more holidays into our calendar?

Have you noticed that public holidays appeal far more to indifferent and mediocre employees than to those who are genuinely interested in their work and in making headway in the world?

Of course, the be-all and the end-all of life is not work or business, but living. But do a plethora of public holidays tend to enrich our lives and strengthen our characters, or have they an unsettling influence on us? Remember that when our forefathers named a few, a very few public holidays, vacations of one week to one month for the people were totally unknown.

Personally I believe in vacations. But I doubt the wisdom of vying with Turkey and China and Egypt in the matter of finding excuses for more and more public holidays.

PRISONERS PLEAD AT WAPAKONETA

Robbery Admitted by One, Denied by Another.

SEEK OWNER OF DEATH AUTO

Creeping Fire in City Dump is Finally Quenched.

WAPAKONETA.—(Special).—Lloyd Merritt, St. Marys, indicted on a charge of burglarizing the Henry Koepfer hardware store in that city, pleaded guilty to the indictment when arraigned here Tuesday. He was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory.

Dan Donley, held on the same charge, entered a plea of not guilty, but reserved the right to change it. The men were also charged with having broken into a barn owned by George Holtzhauser and stealing a Ford auto. Merritt is 19 and Donley 21 years old.

These two men and another broke out of the county jail here last summer and after a lively chase were recaptured at Geyer, east of here on the T. & O. C. railroad.

James L. Oberlin, of St. Marys, charged with non-support of his minor child, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Toledo workhouse for six months.

George Burton under indictment on a charge of rape, entered a plea of not guilty.

Sheriff Ewing is making an extraordinary effort to establish the identity of the party whose automobile killed Henry Rohrbacher, an aged Moulton man, on the road west of here Saturday night. Evidence has been found that when the auto struck Rohrbacher, breaking his legs, arms and neck, and crushing his head, his body was caught on the front of the machine and that the driver stopped to remove it. Rohrbacher was laid at the side of the paved road, his nether limbs straightened out and his hands folded across his breast. In that position life remained for more than an hour.

FROST TONIGHT IS WEATHER TIP

Fair tonight, with frost, but it's going to be fair and warm on Thursday. That's the latest word from the man who assumes to tell us what the temperature is going to be, in advance. Considering that Jack Frost has made only one honest guess since this section thus far this fall, prospect of his return can easily be accepted as final. In view of the fact that we are near the middle of October and that it's high time he ought to come, if at all. Old Sol is endeavoring to keep Indian Summer on the job, with indifferent success.

Better add a cover or two to usual supply tonight, for it's going to be chilly.

TRUCE BREAK IRELAND FEARED

This is Chief Difficulty Now before Conference.

LONDON.—(By Associated Press)

The British and Irish delegates pending a resumption of the conference tomorrow, were today considering alleged breaches of truce in Ireland and endeavoring to devise means by which they might avoid during the negotiations looking to a settlement of the future of Ireland. This was the difficulty faced by the conference, an assumption by the Daily Express that the functions of government in Ireland having caused much irritation here.

Actual outbreaks or conflicts, the crown forces are regarded as less serious than the virtual ousting of the British authorities by Sinn Fein courts and police, as crown forces cannot, without breaching the truce, take active measures against this policy on the part of the Sinn Fein.

Under the terms of the truce, crown forces must not carry out which the British government allow the Sinn Feiners do. Eamon J. Duggan, who acted as chief liaison officer in Ireland, is acting for Sinn Fein in this matter and A. Cope, assistant under secretary of Ireland, who originally signed the truce, has come to London from Dublin to advise the government's representatives.

The Sinn Fein, which has carried out religiously its agreement regarding publication of the proceedings the conferences, complained this morning that there had been leaks the government side and said it was another matter which they should demand remedied.

MERCHANTS TURN PROFIT TO JOBLESS

Plan Adopted by Business Men to Wipe Out Unemployment

SELLING AT COST

Object of Move Is to Revise Industry and Create New Trade

(By HAROLD D. JACOBS)
NEW YORK—American merchants have initiated a system of "no profit" sales to revive industry in general and help wipe out unemployment.

The movement, started by a Brooklyn concern, has begun to sweep over the country. It was learned Saturday night. It has already received the endorsement of public officials and is being studied by President Harding's unemployment conference.

Under this new plan, merchants are throwing millions of dollars worth of commodities on the market at exactly the price the goods cost them, not even charging for the expense of handling.

BENEFITS POINTED OUT
In doing this, they declare they are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars in profits, but are reaping these benefits:

Speeding up industry by increased production for replacement of goods sold.

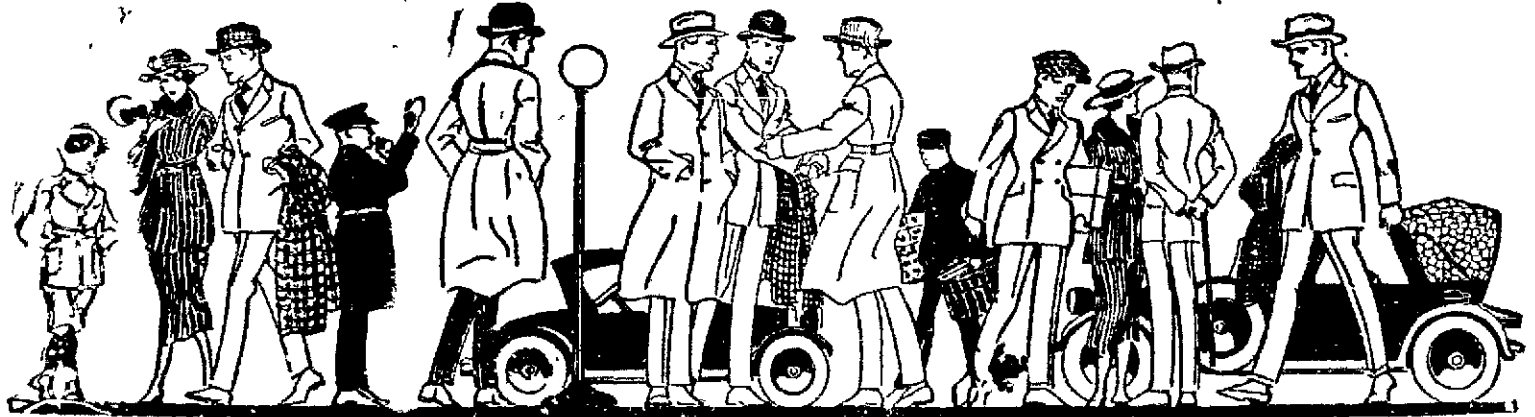

Decreasing unemployment thru resultant new business for manufacturers in addition to forcing wholesalers and retailers to use larger sales forces.

Restoring confidence in the business situation.

Bringing large sums of money into circulation.

"An important aspect of these 'no profit' sales is that they are not old goods bought at high prices, which have laid on the merchants' shelves, but are being purchased right now for the sole purpose of releasing commodities which have clogged the country's warehouses," Herman Neaderland, originator of the plan, declared.

Will Quit Arms Parley If Things Don't Suit Her.

WOULD LIMIT DISCUSSIONS

Herbert Quick Fearful of Conference Results.

BY HERBERT QUICK
WASHINGTON — No one can blame Japan for entering the disarmament conference in a guarded way.

Her whole future, in some respects, may hang on the decisions. So may ours. So may those of the British empire.

Japan has left many loopholes for open for withdrawal if she desires to withdraw. She insists on her reservation that "matters concerning only a few nations of which are accomplished facts" ought not to be brought into the discussion.

Does the Shantung matter concern only a few nations? And how about the Siberian occupation? What of freedom of immigration under this head? And the Yap Island controversy? How many of these are "accomplished facts?"

That is to be worked out. Japan has a treaty of alliance with Great Britain, now expiring. Japan wants this treaty renewed. Great Britain desires to denounce the treaty. Yet not only Great Britain, but some of her colonies do not want it renewed unless on terms satisfactory to us.

JAPAN'S FUTURE
If this treaty is not renewed, Japan may be isolated. But she wants friends and allies.

How will Italy and France line up in the conference? I think it fair to say that they will look at the Pacific questions with something of the eye of outsiders; and that should make for justice.

Japan's desire for friends and allies ought to impel her to accept every just decision.

OPEN MEETINGS
There has been a good deal of honest opinion expressed in this country in favor of perfectly open meetings of the conference.

It is perfectly safe to say that the meetings will most of them be held in private. When tentative propositions are put forward diplomats do not like to have them prematurely discussed. Such discussions often make it impossible for the person making them to back out.

The most that we can expect from the disarmament conference is that an honest policy of publicity be arrived at.

The civilized world will be on trial in this fall and winter. It will be on trial as to its truthfulness and as to its sense of justice.

And its statesmanship will be called upon for a higher statesmanship, a more lofty exaltation of spirit, a more complete dedication to the good of not only their own peoples but of the world than ever before.

It is easy to make war—for statesmen. To make peace takes a greater man. To plan for permanent peace, the greatest of all.

We, as a people, shall be on trial. Let us see how broad we can be, how fair, how sympathetic with other peoples.

FEARFUL OF RESULT
My last word is that I am fearful of the result.

Our people and the peoples of other nations will support almost any effective plan to remove the crushing load of war they carry; that load so well described in Japan's note as "the deadening burden on industry and cultural development which swollen and competitive armaments have brought."

Let us dedicate ourselves to such a support of every endeavor our representatives may make to that end.

LABOR DEMANDS SAFETY LAWS OF OHIO ASSEMBLY

HAMILTON — First steps aiming to provide adequate protection for Ohio factory employees were taken yesterday when the Ohio State Federation of Labor adopted a resolution urging the Ohio legislature to appropriate $150,000 for a state safety campaign.

We will demand appointment of inspectors to survey factories and require all to be equipped with safety devices. We will also recommend a campaign to educate workers and employers along the line of protecting lives. Both the worker and employer need advice."

SCOUTS PREVENT TRAIN WRECK

BOYS ARE HEROES

"Just Good Turn" They Say When Saving Train.

OMAHA, Neb. — (By N. E. A. Service) — Boy hunters recently backed their way thru a huge cottonwood tree and let it fall across the Burlington railroad tracks just outside of Omaha. Then they got scared and ran away.

The stage was all set to send three baggage cars, three coaches, a diner and two pullmans of Burlington train No. 6 into the ditch.

And then—Clarence Swingholm, 12, James Caldwell, 12, and Morris Gale, 12, brought their boy Scout training into action. Securing axes from the Boy Scout camp, nearby, they attempted to chop the trunk away.

This plan they had to drop shortly, as the train was almost due. Racing down the track they waved their hats and a sweater. The engine whistle tooted, but the boys stuck to the track. Then the train squealed to a slow-down and finally to a stop—a few feet from the tree trunk.

The engineer thanked the boys. "Nothing to it," says Clarence Swingholm. "We just did a good turn and that's what Boy Scouts are for."

FORD NOT PLANNING TO BUY TRACTION LINE

CINCINNATI — Henry Ford spent most of today in his private car here awaiting a train to take him to West Virginia where it was said he will inspect coal mines.

He was in Kentucky yesterday, visiting coal mines. Ford's party denied he contemplates purchasing the Cincinnati, Milford and Blanche Traction line as an extension of his existing plant here.

The Detroit manufacturer, "walked about town" during the day, members of the party said, but eluded newspaper men who trailed him to his local plant and back to his car.

No one would specify where Ford had been in Kentucky or where he was going in West Virginia.

CONGRESS ASKED TO AID JOBLESS

Conference's Recommendations Are Put Up To Harding.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Resolutions adopted by the national conference on unemployment suggesting steps for the economic betterment of the country were transmitted to President Harding today by Secretary Hoover, chairman of the conference.

The conference's conclusions after a survey of the nation's business and employment problems were expected to form a guide for the administration's future policy. As several of the conference's resolutions suggest congressional action it was thought these might be called to the attention of congress by the president.

Recommendation that Secretary Hoover select a representative committee from the various elements interested in construction, such as financiers, labor, engineers, architects, contractors and material manufacturers to coordinate community action for improvement in the building industry was made in the report of the committee on construction industries to be presented today to the conference.

The report declared the construction problem was one for local action by governors and mayors in cooperation with such a committee.

While the committee found that there had been substantial reductions in the costs of many construction materials, lower prices for some materials had not yet been brought about in keeping with the trend of the reduction of manufacturers and wholesalers. This, the report asserted, is a subject to be taken up locally in each community.

On the subject of wages the committee said:

The cost of living, rentals and working conditions differ in various communities. Where fair wage reductions have not been made, construction is held up. Such conditions should be dealt with fairly and frankly between employer and workmen and reasonable readjustments promptly made.

The report added that the employer should not, however, permit the wage of his workmen to go below a point sufficient to provide the necessities of life and to permit of the proper education of children.

ROBBERY SUSPECT IS NABBED

Believed by Police Implicated in Theft in Cottage.

Police at noon Wednesday arrested a man who gave his name as C. S. Pash, 33, declared by the police to be Stanley Pash. He was taken at the corner of Main and High-sts by Detective Willis Kipker and Plainclothesman Joe Reed.

They learned two days ago that he was in Lima and had been on the lookout for him.

He was taken to the police station and booked on suspicion. He stated that his residence is Elkhardt, Ind. He is a trainman, he told the police.

He may be charged with robbery of a cottage at Russell Point, occupied by Mrs. Marie Custerborder. The police hold a warrant issued in Logan-co, charging Pash with the crime. Several diamond rings were stolen.

Pash is alleged in the warrant to have attempted to dispose of them in Belmont.

The man held here bears little resemblance to Joe Broderick, who deceived the police into believing he was Stanley Pash at the county jail in Fort Wayne, after being arrested in Rockford, Ill., for robbery.

FEW MEN PERFECT, SAY TAILORS IN FITTING SUITS

Some men may look perfect, but leave it to their tailor; looks are deceiving.

"Do a majority of men stand correctly, while being fitted?" The question was put to a number of Lima tailors and the consensus of opinion is that they do not.

Every man has some slight imperfection, they say, which prevents him from standing just as the 100 per cent perfect man should stand.

"When being measured, most men stand as they do ordinarily," said C. W. Herbst. "None of them are perfect. Some try to stand differently, which makes fitting hard."

Nearly every man is out of proportion some place, it was stated at the Reed & Reed tailor shop. Either his head is too far forward, he's stooped shouldered, has one shoulder that is too high, or some other little fault.

Twenty-nine out of 100 men are lacking some place, is the opinion of J. E. Summers of Summer & Gibbs.

"They may look alright," he said, "but we have to allow for a lot of imperfections somewhere."

I., who claims that Wagner is the man who disappeared with his sample cases, which he had employed Wagner to carry Wagner declared at police headquarters here today that he had never been in Cincinnati, and is innocent of the charge.

Detroit detectives recovered about $8,000 worth of the missing jewelry. The melting pot, the detectives charge, was found in Wagner's room.

STATUE TO "TIGER" TRIPARTITE PACT IS SOUGHT

New Zealand Premier Wants U. S., Britain, Japan Treaty.

WOULD INSURE WORLD PEACE

Hopes to See Alliance Formed at Arms Conference.

HONOLULU, Hawaii — (By NEA Service) — A great step will be taken toward lasting peace if there can be attained at the Washington disarmament conference a tripartite agreement between Great Britain, America and Japan.

This is the opinion expressed by W. F. Massey, premier of New Zealand, who passed thru Honolulu recently on his way home from London after four months at the all-British premiers' conference.

It is Premier Massey's first official utterance on the subject since leaving the British capital.

"Australia and New Zealand are more interested in the Pacific than any other nations in the world," said Massey.

"I regard the imperial conference that has just concluded its sitting as being the most important gathering of representatives from the different parts of the British empire that has ever been held."

"A great deal of the work has been essentially the sort which is usually dealt with by a cabinet rather than by a conference. MEETING EPOCHAL."

"The conference was epoch-making in that it has marked the first occasion that the representatives of the dominions have joined in the government of the empire as a whole."

"Very important matters have been dealt with and momentous decisions have been arrived at which will have a far-reaching effect in the direction of empire unity."

"I am very strongly of the opinion that we have laid the foundations of a system which will, in years to come, develop into a satisfactory form of government for the British empire."

"At that was done at the conference was in the interest of a united empire under one sovereign, and with that principle New Zealand is thoroughly in accord."

Premier Massey says Australia and New Zealand need cheap freight rates, faster passenger and mail service, and better cable and wireless facilities, and he expects to see these needs fulfilled.

Massey is 64 and in his tenth year as New Zealand's premier. Mrs. Massey and their daughter accompanied him to England.

For the third time in the past month, a touring car belonging to Creta Schuler, 468 E. McKibben-st., was stolen from near Trinity M. E. church, at Market and West-sts., Tuesday night. On September 9 and again on September 18 the car was taken from the same location. It had not been found by the police Wednesday.

HULA-HULA LAND

LIFE occasionally gets monotonous and makes you yawn. Then you reach for the newspaper to find what the nearby movie house is showing. A Hawaiian picture is on. You decide to go.

Maybe you have to stand in line until the clench-and-fadeout of reel five starts the spectators leaving like a drove of joyous horses. Then you get a seat.

The picture starts. Palm leaves wave. Surf rolls in. A pretty girl in a grass skirt trips in. Life loses its leaden hue.

You go home, secretly wishing you lived in Honolulu.

IT develops, however, that life in and around Honolulu isn't much different than in Lima. Same problems.

Consider these recent happenings in Honolulu:

Manuel C. Madeiros, former motorcycle policeman, is sentenced to a year in jail and $1000 fine for possessing and selling "okole-bao," the Hawaiian bootleg liquor.

The ukulele disappears from Honolulu orchestras. For jazz has crossed the Pacific from San Francisco, and ukulele and steel guitar gather dust while banjo and saxophone take the throne.

Horse traders are leaving the Hawaiian Islands. Tractors are taking the place of horse and mule on sugar and pineapple plantations.

STEPHEN L. DESHA, senator from Hilo, gets up in the legislature at Honolulu and introduces a bill to regulate bathing suits at local beaches. The bill passes. Coffee-colored cops arrest fair bathers who stroll the sands without kimonos.

Said Desha: "In 1820 New England missionaries came to Hawaii and inaugurated dress reforms among the native Hawaiians. And now, 101 years later, the Hawaiians are attempting to properly clothe the white people."

That must make Father Time chuckle.

VISITING Honolulu and observing civilization's invasion of the country made famous by "The Bird of Paradise," you finally would come out of your bewilderment with, "Gee, it ain't like that in the books and movies."

Therein you have a great truth, something that applies to Hawaii and all other lands of paradoxes.

Romance is an illusion. Romance always seems to be on the other side of the hill, in the next town.

Lima gets dull at times. But so does Honolulu. So does El Dorado. So does Atlantis. So does the foot of the rainbow.

Romance, happiness, contentment, thrills, interest in life and its wonders—all these are a state of mind.

COLUMBUS DAY

OCTOBER 12 is the 429th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. All over the world it is celebrated as Columbus Day.

What Columbus sought was a short-cut route to India, by way of the westward ocean.

What he discovered was more than a continent, it was a turning-point in civilization and government.

When the fearless Italian navigator landed on the Island of Guanahani, West Indies, in the early morning of October 12, 1492, he opened the door of the land that made government by the people possible.

Gold lured the early explorers of America. But it was refugees from European political oppression that built the foundations of the mighty civilization that has risen on the American continent.

Individually, and as a nation, we owe a tremendous debt to Christopher Columbus. And let us not forget the queen who pawned her jewels to finance his venture into the uncharted Atlantic Ocean.

A FINE ART

BY DR. WM. E. BARTON

MRS. K. CHESTERTON has been to Jerusalem, and has written about his experiences there. So many people had preceded Mr. Chesterton, and had written of what they saw, it must have been hard for him to say anything original about it. But he was not disappointed in the old Biblical city.

"Various cultivated critics told me I should find Jerusalem disappointing, and I fear that it will disappoint them that I am not disappointed."

Not at all. If other people had gone to Jerusalem and found it all that they hoped Mr. Chesterton would surely have found it very disappointing; but inasmuch as that is not the ordinary verdict, no one who reads Mr. Chesterton could doubt that he would find it exactly what other people did not.

In this instance I am in accord with Mr. Chesterton. I was not disappointed in Jerusalem. I knew before I went there about the dirt and the fleas and the beggars, and I determined to enjoy the city in spite of them.

Indeed, I do not like to be disappointed. Being disappointed is largely a habit. People can make up their minds to enjoy life and enjoy it, in spite of its inevitable trials. Or, they can go thru life disappointed in everything and disappointed everywhere.

It is good to cultivate the fine art of not being disappointed. One gets more out of life and also gives more.

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
CASTOR OIL

The day is not long past when castor oil was administered on the slightest pretext for every and all ills. Grandmother used to reach for the castor oil bottle every time one of the children had a pain.

But things have changed somewhat. There never was a boy who demanded castor oil so that he could stay home from school. The medicines these days that are used instead of castor oil are so pleasant that many a boy fakes a stomach ache so that he can play hooky from school even though he knows that "mum" will insist on his taking one of these physics.

The chief merit of castor oil is its antiquity. It is said to have been used back in the days of Egypt's glory as the remedy for all ills. It produces nausea in most cases; it develops many of the most obstinate cases of constipation in children; it produces a feeling of hatred and distrust for medicine and doctors in general that lives in many cases for long years.

Castor oil is binding. That is one reason it is prescribed for diarrhea. Most all cathartics have a secondary binding effect, but castor oil in particular.

In these days when medicines are so well advanced, it is altogether unnecessary to make a child swallow castor oil when there are other physics that produce the results besides being pleasant to take. There are plenty to choose from. There is no need to select the crudest.

People are getting over the idea that to do any good medicine must be unpleasant to take.

Good substitutes for castor oil are aromatic syrup of rhubarb (U. S. P.) in the same doses for the same purposes, (children call this the candy medicine). Milk of magnesia, liquid petrolatum, aromatic fluid extract of cascara, liquid citrate of magnesia, senna leaves chopped up with figs or boiled with prunes, and phenolphthalein tablets or lozenges.

Unless parents wish to have endless difficulty with indigestion and constiveness in the case of the baby they should ponder long and well before giving the baby castor oil except where ordered by a physician. It means lots of trouble later on.

Goitre Is Removed Without Operation

Growth, 5 Years Old, Fades Before External Home Remedy

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Mrs. Frank Leard, 1610 Karr St. Springfield, Ohio, writes in her home paper, the Springfield Daily News: "Sore throat completely removed a goitre of five years' standing for my daughter six years ago, and it has never bothered her since. She was in a terrible condition. Her nervous system was broken down. We had to take her from school. It took less than one bottle to reduce her neck 1 1/2 inches and to restore her to good health. I am glad to tell my own experience by letter of phone."

Sore throat quinine comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Does not interfere with daily work. Leaves the parts in a beautiful, normal condition. Requires ten minutes daily.

HOME-MAKING AS CAREER

Co-Education Is Held Enemy Of Marriage Today

By DR. WILLIAM W. GUTH, President, Goucher College, Baltimore

BALTIMORE — The American college girl, recent statements by eugenicists notwithstanding, favors the mother-role rather than the pay roll, is seeking to make herself useful in the home and in the community, before entering the field of business. The vocations are a last resort.

Matrimony, with an enlightened interest in the problems of the community, is regarded by the great majority of educated women as a real career, with great and inspiring possibilities.

It has been said that about 50 per cent of college women remain unmarried. The facts dispute this estimate. Records at Goucher College show that the percentage of unmarried graduates is nearer 25, and when one considers that these records include the girls of the latest classes, just out of college, it is obvious that even this estimate is probably too high for fair consideration.

Many reasons have been cited for the fact that married college women are not in a greater majority. The war, and its effect on business is chief among these reasons.

Another, put forward recently by Dr. Jon Alfred Nye of the Academy of Science at Christiania, Norway, is that the education of women is too similar to that given to men. As a means of increasing the percentage of married college women, he favors the liberation of woman "from her present unnatural, masculine education."

In other words, the bulk of the blame is placed on the door of co-education.

There is much truth in this. In a co-educational institution everything is done for and by the men. In spite of all that can be said to the contrary, the courses are arranged for the men.

In many such institutions women are not welcome in classes with men, and there is a subtle tendency on the part of men teachers either to look upon the women in their classes as a sort of necessary evil or to regard them in a more lenient way than they ought to be regarded.

In a college for women, however, the feminine interest is paramount. In their studies, and in their extracurricular activities, the girls can all concentrate on the real aim of education for women—which is greater usefulness, primarily in the home and in the community.

At Goucher there are few more popular subjects than the courses on the Family, Family Hygiene, Child Psychology, Child Welfare and Nutrition and Dietetics.

The president, the vice president and the treasurer of our alumni association—all married women with splendid families—can testify that there is no career for the college-trained girl preferable to the career of home-making.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Goss

There is so much that I am sure of And certain that I now possess, That all the doubt men talk about Cannot disturb my happiness; I know that as the days go by The morning sun shall light my way. And underneath a lovely sky My children shall in safety play. When men with sad and gloomy faces Picture the miseries of life, And wonder why, since they must die, They came into this vale of strife, I count the splendors that are mine— The beauty of my youngster's smile, The happy hours with friendships fine And say the care is all worth while.

"Is it of use," the cynic mutters "To live a few brief years, and then Pass out from care, to none knows where. Or shall he ever live again?" With love and laughter all about, And beauty of the field and wood, In spite of every dread and doubt And every pain to live is good. (Copyright, 1921.)

NEWBERRY FIGHT IS RENEWED

Pomerene Plans to Drive Michigan Man From Senate.
LORIMER CASE IS RECALLED
Is Expected to Become Major Issue in 1922.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU Washington, D. C. (Special) — A fight to unseat Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, rivaling in vigor the onslaught which drove William Lorimer of Illinois from the United States Senate, was predicted here by Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, who indicated the lines along which he will direct the campaign, is a special interview for The Lima News.

The Newberry fight is likely to come before the Senate within the next few weeks. Beginning Friday of the present week, speeches on the German treaty will be limited to one hour and the pact should be disposed of a few days later. After that time, the reports of the Republican members of the Senate committee on privileges and elections, exonerating Newberry, will probably be made the unfinished business and offered for adoption by the Senate.

As a substitute for the majority report, Senator Pomerene, who wrote a scathing indictment of the adoption of his minority report and the expulsion of Newberry from the ground that he gained his seat through violation of the primary and corrupt practices laws of Michigan.

"I was not in the Senate when the first fight against Lorimer was made," Senator Pomerene told The Lima News correspondent. "I will remember that he was seated on the first vote but the matter was brought up again thru the uncovering of additional evidence and on the second vote he was unseated."

"At that time I took the position that, disregarding the question of Lorimer's knowledge of the corrupt methods used to secure his election by the state legislature, his seat was tainted with fraud and he should be expelled."

In my judgment the case against Newberry is stronger than that against Lorimer. Page after page of testimony in the record of the hearings of our committee establish that the committee which spent more than $175,000 in his behalf in the primary, acted as 'his agents, with his cooperation and support. I do not believe any reasonable man can read this record and entertain a doubt that Newberry knew the limit of expenditures for such a campaign, set in the corrupt practices act of Michigan, was being exceeded."

Asked if he thought there was a chance of unseating Newberry, in view of the top-heavy Republican majority, Senator Pomerene responded with a vigorous affirmation.

"There is no question but what the majority believe they can 'put Newberry over' the Senator said, 'but they are worried at the prospect of a small group of independent Senators voting with the Democrats. I believe we can make such a fight on the record of this case that the majority report will be repudiated. Nothing can stop the Newberry case from becoming a major political issue in the campaign of 1922 in Ohio and elsewhere in my opinion and that situation will have its effect on independent members of the Senate."

Senator Pomerene declined to state from whom he expected Republican support for his minority report. It is known here, however, that Senators Borah, Ladd, Norris, Johnson, Kenyon and LaFollette will vote with the Democrats on the case. Senators Capper, Cummins, McNary, Lenroot, Jones of Washington, Harrell and Gooding are listed as doubtful. A change of only ten or twelve votes from the Republican column would result in the unseating of Newberry, with an average attendance in the Senate.

Senator Selden P. Spencer of Missouri who wrote the report exonerating Newberry, will lead the fight against Senator Pomerene and his colleagues.

Firing on Atlanta Woman Leader Investigated.

WASHINGTON. — (By United Press) — Colonel William J. Simmons, Imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, today personally organized a counter-attack on the forces seeking to disband his organization thru a congressional investigation.

Simmons directed, his attorneys and others from the group representing the "invisible empire" in an attack against C. Anderson Wright, formerly a King Klansman, who bared many of the secrets of the Klan to the house rules committee. The committee is to decide whether a congressional investigation is warranted.

WOMAN CHIEF SHOT AT ATLANTA. — (By Associated Press) — Several 32 calibre steel jacketed bullets and the trial of footprints that ended at the road were all county police had to start on today in their inquiry into what they characterized as an evident attempt last night to assassinate Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, head of the women's department of the Ku Klux Klan.

Five shots were fired into the bedroom window of Mrs. Tyler's home here, she reported to police headquarters and while the window glass was smashed the bullets whizzed over the bed of her daughter, Miss Doris Tyler, who was ill. The bullets were found embedded in the walls of the room.

A mysterious telephone call was received by the Atlanta Constitution within an hour after the shooting and a man's voice said:

"I just want to say that we got Mrs. Tyler tonight and we will get Colonel Simmons tomorrow."

W. J. Simmons, Imperial wizard of the Klan, is in Washington attending hearings by which the house rules committee expects to decide whether to recommend congressional investigation of the Klan.

The Tyler house is situated in a sparsely settled neighborhood and since the public agitation over the Klan a guard has been on duty there at night, but recently his services were dispensed with in the early part of the evening and he only went on duty at midnight. The shooting took place about 9:30 p. m.

POTATO CROP FAR BELOW THE AVERAGE IN OHIO

COLUMBUS. — Ohio corn will show a bumper crop, but potatoes are far below the average, according to figures issued by C. J. West, statistician of the United States department of agriculture.

The one saving feature in the potato figures from the standpoint of the farmer, is that the price is much better than last year.

It was figured that the Ohio production would amount to 6,327,000 bushels, as against 10,700,000 last year.

The state corn crop was expected to reach 150,000,000 bushels, or 9,000,000 over the five-year average with the eastern section of the state doing much better than the western.

THANKFUL HE WAS NOT A WOMAN

The late Lawson Tait, of England, or went to bed at night without the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman, long since passed to her reward, who introduced a combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and relieving diseases of women. It has brought relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. Hunter's 2 Drug Stores, Enterpho Drug Store, Thompson's 3 Drug Stores, Interurban Drug Store, Public Drug Store have been appointed agents for Allen's in this vicinity with the understanding that he will freely return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they received no benefit.

"PAY ALIMONY OR GO TO JAIL"

Judge Eastman Issues Order in Case of Roger Boose.

Roger Boose, real estate agent, 2028 W. Market-st, must pay alimony to his wife, Mrs. Frances Robinson Boose, or go to jail, for contempt of court.

Such is the decision of Judge E. R. Eastman, Ottawa, who heard the trial. The new order was conveyed to J. T. Cotner, clerk of courts, late Tuesday afternoon.

Judge Eastman, in his order, says that since the hearing for alleged contempt of court on September 30, Boose has paid the amount of $100.

The court notes that Boose has household furniture stored in a furniture house in Lima, from which sale it will be possible to pay an additional $50 to Mrs. Boose's attorney. Judge Eastman gave Boose until November 10 to sell the furniture and make the payment to his wife's attorneys.

The court also noted that Boose was earning money and that he was able to pay part of the sums awarded at the original hearing.

Judge Eastman ordered that $50 be paid immediately and another $50 in October, so as to make the amount of $100 for October payable as ordered by the court following the hearing of the case in July.

The court also ordered that no further delay in the payment of $100 a month for alimony would be granted Boose, but that the money must be forthcoming.

Judge Eastman declared that in event of the non-payment of the $100 a month, an order of execution should be issued against Boose's person or property, or both.

Declares It's Simply Astonishing to See the Wonderful Benefits She Has Derived from Tanlac—Says Terrible Headaches Have Disappeared.

MRS. ROSE M. BROWN

"It sounds unreasonable, but I have actually gained 20 pounds in less than a month's time by taking Tanlac, and the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of this medicine is simply astonishing," said Mrs. Rose M. Brown, 111 Third Street, Manchester, N. H.

"Why, I am so happy to be relieved of my troubles I can really never praise this medicine enough. Up to the time I began taking Tanlac, I suffered for something over two years with a very bad form of stomach trouble."

"My appetite was so poor I could scarcely eat a thing. My stomach would be so badly bloated with gas sometimes I was almost afraid to go to bed for fear I would actually smother. I felt tired and worn out most of the time and became terribly discouraged over my condition. I often had such violent headaches I was unable to be out of bed for two or three days at a stretch."

"Four bottles of Tanlac completely restored my health and anyone can see at a glance the wonderful change that has taken place in my condition. I have a splendid appetite now and the stomach trouble has entirely disappeared. I can eat just anything I want without ever feeling a sign of indigestion. The best of all, I am never bothered any more with headaches and this was the greatest relief of all. I want to tell everybody what this medicine has done for me." Tanlac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM IS NOT TO BE DISCUSSED IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS HERE

J. E. Collins, superintendent of schools, stated Wednesday he had not received official notification that the present unemployment situation is to be considered in any manner in the public schools here.

Announcement made Wednesday in Washington was to the effect that the public school system of the country would consider proposed remedies for the unemployment situation, such a campaign having been decided upon in compliance with a request made by Secretary Hoover. The plan will follow largely that adopted in the food campaign of 1918, the National Education association announced.

"I have been in Columbus for several days and nothing has come to my desk concerning this matter," Superintendent Collins declared Wednesday when asked if the Lima schools would conform with the proposal.

"The dominating personality in each instance is always 'doing her best' for the victim tyrannized over."

"In other words, the 'will-to-power' produces egotism and conceit. Here is variation of the same theme: 'My sister objects to my marriage with the man I love. I learn my living as a teacher, therefore ought to have some kind of a mind of my own.'"

"But my sister, with whom I board, has in mind for me a man of means but he is old. And all I want is my lover, and a bungalow and a little flower garden." "My sister says that I am making her dreadfully unhappy! That she never has spent such a wretched summer."

"She makes me so miserable I can only think in circles. Help me to think straight!"

OUT-OF-TOWN CONTRACTORS BID LOWEST ON SEWER AND PAVING CONTRACTS HERE

The board of control was expected to award contracts sometime Wednesday to the two lowest bidders on the Kennilworth-ave sewer contract and the N. Central-ave relief sewer extension.

Bids for the work were opened Tuesday, W. J. Irwin & Sons, Greenville, are the lowest bidders for construction of the N. Central-ave work. Irwin's bid was $52,000, the next nearest is by John Farley, Chicago, whose offer is $53,000 for the job.

McHugh & Cole, South Bend, Ind., were low bidders on the Kennilworth-ave sewerage contract, their estimate amounting to $6,111.75.

WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WHITCOX

THE WILL TO POWER

Living one life does not suffice for some persons. They try to live other's lives as well.

This is called "the will-to-power" and it is one of the dominant human urges. It animates spinsters as well as kaisers and mid-seeming mothers as well as tyrannical husbands. It made the great war and it is most effective destroyer of individual happiness known to the race. To illustrate:

"My mother rules with an iron hand in a home which requires no ruling. I am over 30, a successful business woman, and she has managed to break my engagement. She made the man so wretched that he decided to leave me rather than risk sharing a home which would have to be open to her."

"I never have lived at all for myself. I haven't even the privacy of my own room. I must account for the minutes when I go down town. Usually mother shops with me, goes along to see the joy of dictating. I remember that I am nearly 35. Sounds absurd!"

"She calls this 'mother love.' Is extremely fond of boasting about it as an example to young mothers. I often wish to tell them that I'd prefer hatred to tyranny."

"She has always had hysterics to get her own way. Now she threatens to kill herself if I dare to leave her and who will hurry back to me if I assure him that our home will not be run by my mother?"

Certainly an interesting exhibit of how one human being tries to live two lives at once, her own and her daughter's.

Parallels are to be found in many homes. The spectacle as observed by outsiders is tragic.

"The dominating personality in each instance is always 'doing her best' for the victim tyrannized over."

"In other words, the 'will-to-power' produces egotism and conceit. Here is variation of the same theme: 'My sister objects to my marriage with the man I love. I learn my living as a teacher, therefore ought to have some kind of a mind of my own.'"

"But my sister, with whom I board, has in mind for me a man of means but he is old. And all I want is my lover, and a bungalow and a little flower garden."

"My sister says that I am making her dreadfully unhappy! That she never has spent such a wretched summer."

"She makes me so miserable I can only think in circles. Help me to think straight!"

That's easy: Promulgate a declaration of personal independence.

FOUNDATION EVOLVED

The first thought had been simply of some sort of tribute. Then came the problem of what form it should take. The usual material form of recognition did not seem to embody the living idea that the men and women felt should be expressed. Then a "foundation" was suggested, and that was the form finally decided upon.

This foundation is a fund — it is hoped it will reach $1,000,000 and over—the income from which will be bestowed from time to time as an award to some person or group that has rendered within a specified period meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice."

More nearly than anything else, the reasons for which it is given are quite different, it resembles the Nobel Prizes.

There has been no such award in this country before. But it may be given, and very likely often will be, to some person or group inconspicuous or obscure. It will be simply the value of their contribution to public welfare or democracy that will count.

WILL PERPETUATE WILSON IDEALS

Mrs. Simonson

(BY MAY LADD SIMONSON)

One of the New York City Chairmen of the League of Women Voters.

NEW YORK. — The unity and friendship that developed among women in war work show every sign of enduring.

The fundamental lessons in democracy, learned in sorrow and during the stress of getting their fighting men across the sea, they are continuing to apply in this reconstruction period.

More than that, the women who were leaders then, are now set upon keeping before them and before their children, in positive and constructive form, the ideals and ideas for which the war was fought.

An illustration of this unity and friendship lies in the quick response American women are making to the call of the newly organized Woodrow Wilson Foundation. The aim of the foundation is to perpetuate the ideals of democracy and human rights for which the war was fought, and to honor the man who interpreted and expressed them for all men and women—Woodrow Wilson former president of the United States.

It is interesting and significant to reflect that the conception of the foundation was a woman's idea. One day last winter a group of women who had worked together through the war, met in a New York home and there took shape the thought of honoring the men who they believed set forth the ideals that had bound them and all the men and women of the world together for two years to supreme effort.

The first thought had been simply of some sort of tribute. Then came the problem of what form it should take. The usual material form of recognition did not seem to embody the living idea that the men and women felt should be expressed. Then a "foundation" was suggested, and that was the form finally decided upon.

This foundation is a fund — it is hoped it will reach $1,000,000 and over—the income from which will be bestowed from time to time as an award to some person or group that has rendered within a specified period meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice."

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart: I am a young woman and am engaged to be married. I am very happy, but there is one obstacle in the way which I think I shall try to overcome. The parents of my fiancé know of course, that we are engaged to be married, but not once have they made any effort whatsoever to meet me. They have never invited me to their home. I don't understand it. I am not perfect, I know, but I have a good reputation and everyone says I am very polite and have a fairly good disposition. There is only one thing that I can think of. We are of different religious faith. Perhaps that is why his parents meet them, but I am afraid to as I have a feeling that they hate me. What would you advise me to do?

TO FULFILL his duties as a gentleman your fiancé should have made arrangements long ago for you to meet his parents. Perhaps he does not realize how much this means to a young girl or woman. It makes her feel so much better to know that the parents of the man to whom she betrothed approve of her and are willing to accept her. Perhaps it is not your religion to which they object. There are many mothers who hold a selfish love toward their sons and the fact that someone else is going to claim them gives such a mother a feeling of contempt toward the other woman.

I really feel that if you could possibly meet your fiancé's parents you could win their love. Should you happen to fail in doing this, do not become discouraged, but wait until some of the obstacles have been removed from your path.

The difference in religion should not affect your happiness, providing all concerned are broad-minded.

Dear Miss Smart: There is a night school in Lima where a married man or woman can attend and improve their reading and writing. One who can scarcely read or write is unable to get a job and make it possible to attend to business. If there is no school of this kind, what would you advise me to do to improve myself, considering I have only had an education under parental direction and now am seeking the need of it. Am anxious to receive more.

A LIMA RESIDENT Classes in night school are held at the Central and South high schools. The classes have not organized as yet for this year, but will be in a short time. I would advise you to confer with either the superintendent of the Lima schools or one of the principals of the high schools.

Dear Miss Smart: I have been going with a man since early spring and he has asked me to go his parents' home in Detroit several times. His father and mother have written him and told him to bring me up so I have decided to go some Sunday in the near future. Is this alright, or should they have written to me personally? I have never met them and should I write them, thanking them for the courtesy shown me on my return to this city? We will go early Sunday morning and return in the evening. I thought I should write them a note. I thought I should write them a note. I thought I should write them a note.

Much should depend upon your age as to whether or not it is just the proper and exact thing for you to take this trip with your friend, but from your letter one would judge that you are old enough to know

RIDDLES

(By IRVING MACHELLER)

"You're a clever man, but I wonder if you can put the 'over' said he. 'You're in a way so far—you've built on the sand—but if you really want to be sure, I suppose you can move the structure to firm ground. Now I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to keep watch on you. If you go to work and do the right thing by the lady, I'll do what I can to help you. If you don't—you'll find yourself in the hands of the law.'"

"Thank you, I thank you," Travers answered. "You'll see that I have a real gift for the art of being a gentleman."

"There's a little too much art about you, my boy," said Riddles. "Show me the heart of a gentleman and I'm with you."

"My heart might be better described as that of a cold-blooded animal," said Travers. "Still it is improving. You will acknowledge that, dear Smith, when you know the truth. This morning I saw my mother-in-law, Mr. David Galt, and we had some talk about you."

A sudden, penetrating flash of light fell into the consciousness of the late Mr. Riddles, sweeping every shadow from its remote recesses. The startling surprise of that confession, the impressionable Mrs. Puffer had been quite right in thinking himself lucky.

"You are a clever man," said Riddles. "I wonder what was said about me."

"Dear Smith, he told me of the suspicions that were entertained of you. I told him the truth that I had known you for some time, and that the highest reward for you, and that they were barking up the wrong tree."

"But what am I to do under examination?" Riddles asked. "I shall have to—"

"Tell the truth," I suppose," Travers interrupted. "I'll see that the examination is adjourned for a month. Then it may never have to come off."

Riddles sat in silence while Travers returned the sums he had borrowed.

They were nearing the gate of Mrs. Martin.

"If you don't mind, I'll drop you at the gate," said Travers, as he signaled the driver. "I'm likely to be late to dinner, and some guests are coming. Dear Smith, I promise that my behavior will give you no cause for regret."

They parted, and as Riddles entered the gate he met Percy Waters driving out.

"Mrs. Martin wishes to see you at once," said her maid when Riddles entered the kitchen. "You will find her in the library."

In a moment the hired man had found her and Miss Harriet. He did not get the pleasant greeting which he had been wont to receive from them. There was a touch of sternness in Mrs. Martin's voice when she said:

"Smith, we must have frank talk with you. Sit down and tell us where you come from and who you are."

"Mrs. Martin, I thought you wanted help and not history," said Riddles.

"We didn't ask for references, but now I think we shall have to do it," she went on. "I am sure you will agree with me that it is a little unusual for a hired man to be carrying five thousand dollars in his pocket."

"It's a kind of crime," said Riddles. "I'm ashamed of it, and I don't intend for you to know it. But you see, I had to use that money to keep out of jail."

"It is said that you have been a bank robber," the woman continued. "I am told that the man who wore those tramp clothes was a violent socialist and a dynamite. We have every reason to believe in you, but if you stay here we must know about you. Now that socialist who killed the man with a brick was known as Reuben Smith—there is said to be no doubt of that. I understand you to claim that the tramp's clothes which were left on the river shore were not the clothes which you had worn when you came there. Is that right?"

"It is," Riddles answered. "Do you know to whom they belong?"

"I would rather not answer that question just now," said Riddles.

MORE PLANS FOR THE NEW HOME

"Tell me, little gypsy, what the future holds for me? Kindly gaze into my hand. And see what you can see."

Sang Cherry in a sweet soprano one afternoon a few days after Ned's return as she sat hemming some new linen sheets.

"That I will, sweetheart mine," answered her husband, coming up to where she was and grasping her right hand tightly in his own strong ones. "And I see so much happiness in that little palm of yours that it would take at least an afternoon to tell you all about what the future holds for you, too!"

"Been over looking over our lot, dear," he went on, "and it's sure going to be the ideal location of Wellesburg. I can almost smell that old-fashioned garden you have planned every time I go out to have a look. It will be the pride of the town, wait and see, lady-bird."

"Let's put in all sorts of reforms, too, while we're about it, Neddy boy. I remember when we used to have to wash the household linen years ago before we got to earning salaries at home. I used to tell mother that when I got a house of my very own I'd not have table clothes every day."

No span, shiny linen ones, anyhow. And do you know that many of the girls who got married last year did not have a single pair of tablecloths for their tables? There's the loveliest sort of old-bird that looks perfectly stunning on a black table, specially with Chinese blue dishes to match. Of course we'll have a stack of white tablecloths, too, but it will simplify housekeeping if we use the oilcloth when we are alone, dear. No work about them, just a wiping off after the dinner is over till the next time."

"A great idea, Cherry. I'm all for every labor-saving device that my little wife cares to think up. It will mean that you have more time to devote to any hobby of yours, dear," answered Ned cheerfully.

"There spoke the man of my heart," said Cherry, catching his coat sleeve in her hand and kissing it lovingly. "I just know that I'll live with you like so many tired housewives do at the end of a day. I have such a thoughtful husband."

It was two weeks after Ned's return that the first rift in the matrimonial life occurred. Everything had been going swimmingly and, in fact, both Cherry and Ned had often wondered how they ever had got married before. At dinner one evening he announced that Arline Bates was returning the next day and with that announcement the bottom seemed to drop out of Cherry's exquisite happiness.

"You saw Arline in Chicago, didn't you, Ned?" asked his mother. "Someone wrote and said so, and I think she told me the same."

"Yes, I saw her. She came to the city to buy some new clothes and was stopping with some cousins, I believe. She seemed lonely, so I invited her to lunch once or twice and to the theater a couple of times besides."

"I thought that she was going to stay with her father this time," Ned said Cherry quietly.

"I believe he did want her to, but she couldn't stand it. Arline never could live on peaceful terms."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c

PRODUCERS' MOTHER CENSORS THEIR COMEDIES

(BY ETHEL WAGNER.)
CHRISTIE comedies are censored by the mother of the Christie boys before the films are publicly released. I am told.

Not so long ago the bathing girl and slap-stick stuff was eliminated from the Christie comedies. Mutter censorship may be the answer to that.

Most of the public censors of various states are political appointees. Their interest in their positions is as much in their salaries as in their duties. That is one of the reasons for the failure of censorship.

If there must be censorship let it be by the mothers and wives of men who produce the pictures. If producers announced to the world that their mothers and wives were responsible for the morals of their films they would see to it that those films would fit in with the general conception of right and wrong.

The same standard of censorship might just as well be applied to writers and playwrights.

The Christie boys made a shoe-string start of it five years ago. They didn't have money to buy all the props they needed. It was not an unusual sight to see a wagon drive up to the Christie home and cart away to the dining room furniture or the easy chair to be used in making a film.

Now the Christies have a spacious home and a backyard full of alligator pear trees, pedigreed bull dogs and fancy pheasants. It is in that home the family board of censorship meets. And frequently the wife of the pastor of Mrs. Christie's church helps her censor the films.

It is to laugh!
Goldwyn, in paid advertisements, announces that no free tickets will be given to "pass hounds" to see "Theodora" when that film is given its premier.

The ad reads:
"For weeks and months and years, you—members of a favored class that has been growing larger every year—have sought free tickets from various theaters in return for your approval."

"You came as parlor guests, in theory to applaud and boost; but always you went away secretly knocking the show, no matter what its merits."

"You have been seeing shows on Broadway by invitation long enough. This time you have got to pay, or stay at home."

There is bitterness in that, like shoes in the cup of one. At almost every first night of the stage and at many of the pretentious films, the house is packed with those brought to applaud. Thus the critic may be led to say the show "was favorably received."

The Goldwyn ad is admission that the producer has been in the habit of "padding the house" like old-time politicians packed primary conventions.

It is to laugh!
The puppet performer is now occupying a more prominent part on the screen than on the stage. The newest puppet feature is the "Funny Face" comedy.

The figures in that are more life-like than any this writer has heretofore seen. Revolving eyes, flexible features and a fellows that allows them to smoke are responsible for that.

However, from an artistic standpoint they are not to be compared to Tony Sarg's pantomime characters.

The Chimpanzee and the orangutan have long been exploited in film comedies. Their human-like antics have proved mirth provokers, so directors are introducing the smaller, "organ-grinder" type of monkey into casts of feature films. Recent features with monkey performers are "Pilgrims of the Night," "Serenade" and "Footlights."

KENTUCKY COUPLE HALE AND HEARTY AT RIPE OLD AGE

Tell How Their Health Is Kept Right by Taking Nerv-Worth

"I am 77 years of age and I have been taking your famous Nerv-Worth for some time and I find that after taking it I feel so much better," said John Maynard, Center Street, Catlettsburg, Ky. "I can eat and sleep without any trouble. Have been taking medicine for doctors for a long time but without results. My wife is taking the tonic same as myself and she certainly does feel a great deal of benefit from the use of Nerv-Worth. We both think we could not be without a bottle in our house."

Nerv-Worth does good and good only.

Composed of vegetable ingredients it confers rich benefits on the user and leaves not a trace of harm behind. It is truly a family tonic, benefiting equally the nervous, irritable child, the worn-out, overworked man and woman of all ages. It has a pleasant taste and a long effect. Nerv-Worth is now $1.00 per bottle.

Nerv-Worth is sold and recommended by Hunter's Drug Store, Lima; C. M. Young, Van Wert; Haxson's Drug Store, Lima; Drug Store, Kenton; Powell's Pharmacy, Bellefontaine; Minola's, Delphos, Delphos, King & Strickland, Delphos.

SHORT SHAVINGS

A man who owed Olds Lippincott, attorney, an account asked if he would forgive him the debt. "No, I can not forgive the amount," said the barrister, "but I will give you time to pay."

Keeping the floor clean and well oiled is worth all its costs in labor and brushes and oil, is the opinion of Charley Varner, clerk in a Main-st store. "Customers like to see a clean floor as well as a clean stock of goods," Varner said. "We find that cleanliness and orderliness is a big aid to increasing business."

"Just a little of last week's rains in June, when things were so dry, would have meant more filled kernels in the wheat-stalk heads and a better corn crop," says L. S. Van Natta, county farm agent.

Visitors in the outer office in the city building entering to see Mayor F. A. Burkhardt Tuesday morning stopped short just inside the door. They looked, smiled, then chuckled and sat down. Hands flew to face and broad grins were partially concealed behind hands.

Mayor Burkhardt, sitting in his private office became curious to understand the cause of the mirthful waiting list. Making his way to the outer office he glanced around. Here was the secret:

An old cavalry horse saddle rests on a vacant desk in the clerk's office. Placed in it was a large slip of paper inscribed with the words, "If You Are Determined to Ride the Mayor Use This Saddle."
